

Preqin and S&P Global Market Intelligence Announce Strategic Collaboration

Preqin fund data will feature in S&P Global’s Market Intelligence Desktop & Datafeed solutions while select S&P Global Market Intelligence data will be included on Preqin Pro

Preqin, the foremost provider of data, analytics and insights to the alternative assets community, and S&P Global Market Intelligence, the division of S&P Global that provides data, essential insights, and powerful analytics to help navigate the finance markets, announced today a strategic collaboration to share data between their respective platforms. As part of the collaboration, Preqin data will be made available via the Market Intelligence platform and vice versa:

- Preqin’s coverage across all alternative asset classes, including private equity/venture capital, hedge funds, private debt, infrastructure, natural resources and real estate will be available through S&P Global Market Intelligence’s Datafeed solutions.
- Preqin’s private equity and venture capital coverage will be integrated, linked and available through the Market Intelligence desktop solution.
- Market Intelligence’s company financials and transaction coverage will be integrated, linked and available through the Preqin Pro platform.

This collaboration will provide professionals investing in private markets with access to a wider range of differentiated datasets in an integrated platform. S&P Global Market Intelligence’s offering is central to the work of the financial and investment community, while Preqin’s offering provides in-depth analysis of the alternative asset classes. The linking and integration of the data and analytics from both platforms will create an end-to-end workflow solution for capital raising, deal origination, due diligence, and market research.

“We are excited to announce this important collaboration with S&P,” said Ayo Akindele, Preqin’s Global Head of Partnerships. “Financial operatives recognise the increasing significance private capital plays in today’s global market. Working together like this means we will be able to provide significant additional value to the process and save time for both buy-side & sell-side players across public and private market by making data and intelligence more easily accessible. This integration is another step toward our mission of making sure that Preqin’s industry-leading data is the standard and reference for all market participants, and that our clients can access this best-in-class data when assessing opportunities across any market.”

“As we see more market demand for coverage in the private capital market, this collaboration will enable us to provide our customers a comprehensive and deeper set of fund-level and venture capital insights in an integrated way,” said JP O’Sullivan, Managing Director of Financial Institutions at S&P Global Market Intelligence. “Preqin is widely recognized as the market standard for data and analytics in this space and we look forward to working with them to be able to deliver essential insights to our clients across our data feed and desktop solutions.”
